Igniting Everyday Genius™

Wendy's mission is to help others ignite the genius within. She provides audiences with a meaningful and moving experience through her unique ability to simultaneously connect with their feelings and share valuable information. Her training and experience as a Doctor of Heilkunst Medicine and her 24 years of business experience have provided her with the insight required to understand the dance between the intellect and our emotions that defines the human experience. Heilkunst means the art of making one whole, which makes Wendy's background ideal for helping employees bring their greatest gifts to work.

Wendy works with leaders who dare to challenge their employees in unusual and meaningful ways; those who know that their employees are mature, gifted individuals, each waiting to share their personal brand of genius with the world and their workplace, if given the opportunity. Her keynotes and programs help executives mobilize employees toward the achievement of organizational goals, resulting in higher profit, improved service delivery and better overall performance.

Wendy's natural passion for learning means that she enjoys the continual, humbling process of learning about herself and the gifts she is meant to share with the world. This journey, along with her experience as a leader, employee and business owner, provides the backdrop for her See It, Be It, Own It™ keynote talks and workshops.

While much of her livelihood is focused on speaking, Wendy has learned the importance of listening, with both her mind and her soul when communicating with audiences, clients, her husband and children.
